Police Say Girl Hit Twice

992-1225

Six-year-old Lafo Viagalelei of Daly City apparently was struck twice on Friday morning by her hit and run assailant, according to Daly City police.

Police said several witnesses reported seeing the little girl land in front of the car when it first hit her. The driver paused, then allegedly drove over the girl, the witnesses claimed.

"If he didn't kill her the first time, he surely did the second time," commented Lt. Tom Culley. Lafo, who lived at 292 MacDonald Ave., died of multiple injuries at 10:40 a.m. at Kaiser Hospital, South San Francisco, about two hours after the accident.

Bay Area truck drivers, belonging to Teamsters Local No. 85, are distributing circulars with a description of the hit and run vehicle and driver, Culley said.

Culley also said police are circulating the circulars to Daly City businesses.

Police are searching for a man in his early twenties possibly of Latin, Oriental or Filipino descent. He was wearing a dark colored sweatshirt or warmup jacket.

Witnesses reported that the man sped from the scene in a 1967 four-door Plymouth — with a bad paint job — dark green vinyl on top and light green on the bottom.

The car has damage to the left rear fender and also the left side. Culley said it also probably has damage to the front of the car, as a result of the collision with the little girl.

The car bears black and gold California license plates.

Persons with information about the hit-and-run accident are asked to telephone the Daly City Police Department at the number listed above.

Volleyball Star Dies Suddenly

By BILL HURSCHMANN
Skyline College's athletic department remains in mourning today after the unexpected death Saturday of the women's volleyball team star player and captain.

Tau Togiati, a 19-year-old Samoan sophomore at the San Bruno college, died in her sleep at her Daly City home, 278 Morton Drive, sometime Friday night or Saturday morning. She was found by her parents, according to college authorities.

Cause of death has not been determined, the San Mateo County coroner's office said today. An autopsy will be performed, and results are expected within a couple of days. The coroner was called to the Daly City home at 7:15 a.m. Saturday.

"She was more than just a player," Skyline Athletic Director Walt Rilliet said today. "She was a happy, smiling person who also was a student assistant in the athletic department."

The 6 foot, 190-pound youth, whose full name was Faalepatu Togiati, was a 1975 graduate of El Camino High School, South San Francisco, where she starred in both volleyball and basketball.

Miss Togiati was the 1976 most valuable player on the Skyline volleyball team. She also was the center on — See STAR, Page 2

School Board Angers Council

Daly City's City Council had some sharp words for the Jefferson Elementary School District's Board of Trustees Monday.

The council, meeting in study session, heard a brief report from Police Chief David Hansen on the Daly City department's policing of school grounds.

Hansen, responding to recent charges by JESD Trustee Beverly Forrester that Daly City police don't patrol school grounds, said, "The allegations of the member of the school board are entirely incorrect. The grounds are patrolled assiduously."

He explained that 2 two-person teams of CETA employees have been put on the job to help police patrol the schools.

Hansen said that while there is vandalism on school property, "There is not a lack of response."

Police Lt. Tom Culley, who appeared at the JESD trustees' meeting last week to answer the charges, said it first was thought that the criticism stemmed from Trustee Dorothy Adams, but he later learned that Mrs. Forrester was the primary critic.

The council didn't name any names, but several councilmen directed some criticism at the JESD board.

Councilman Tony Giammona expressed strong support of the Police Department's efforts.

"I am a little upset that a public official would make a statement like that, with no facts to back it up," Giammona said of Mrs. Forrester's remarks. "It's very irresponsible. It really irritated me."

Mayor Albert Teglia also said he is "very disappointed that this procedure should be taken, having served for nine years on the (Jefferson High School District) board."

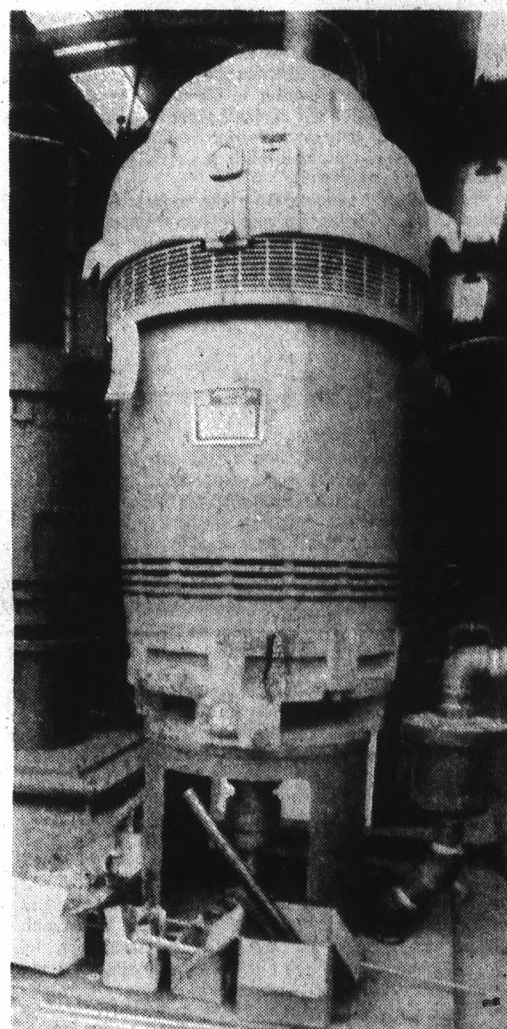

Mayor Pro Tem William Schumacher, a former JESD trustee, added that the Police Department always has patrolled the district schools.

Resident Ernie Pezzola also supported the Police Department, noting that he has talked with police officials about the school patrol many times.

Is New Plant Unnecessary?

By NANCY STANCILL
If a sewage treatment plant has an adequate ocean outfall, there's a new state and federal philosophy developing that says secondary treatment of sewage may not be necessary.

"That's just lovely for us, as we've spent $15 million building a secondary treatment plant," North San Mateo County Sanitation District Manager David Gehre said with irony.

The new philosophy, which has just developed over the past few months, was in sharp contrast with the strict federal Clean Water Act of 1972, which requires that all sewage be given secondary treatment.

So public agencies like the NSMCSDD, which serves Daly City, unincorporated Colma and part of South San Francisco, started working conscientiously on plans for secondary treatment plants.

Secondary treatment, which makes sewage water two-thirds more pure than the basic primary treatment, was the goal for the federally-mandated completion date of summer, 1977.

The sanitation district isn't far off that schedule, as its secondary treatment plant is scheduled to go into operation during the last two weeks of November.

Gehre believes that state and federal officials started asking whether secondary treatment was really necessary for sewage treatment plants which dump deep into the ocean when the grant requests started rolling in.

Dischargers which dump treatment sewage in the oceans comprise about 10 per cent of the nation's dischargers. Other dischargers dump into rivers and lakes, which can't absorb the bacteria so easily, Gehre said.

So the new philosophy is an attempt to begin to parcel out a limited amount of funding where it will be needed the most, he said.

But Gehre does not believe that the new secondary treatment plant will be a waste of the federal, state and local monies which have funded it.

So far, the federal share is $11,160,000. — See SEWAGE, Page 2

Ex-Member Critical of Bond Study Delay

A recommendation by City Manager David Rowe that Daly City defer any housing rehabilitation bond sale studies for six months brought harsh words from a former member of the city's Rehabilitation Advisory Committee Monday.

Conrad Pavellas, who resigned from the committee two weeks ago, charging deliberate foot-dragging by city officials, said, "Maybe there's an axis between Mr. Rowe and Mr. Polonsky."

Pavellas has blamed City Atty. Albert Polonsky as the cause of city delays in getting the low-cost loan program funded by the Department of Housing and Development (HUD) started.

Pavellas and three other directors of the Original

Daly City Protective Association left their advisory committee posts after several weeks of criticism of Polonsky. They said they believe the city attorney is the prime foe of rehabilitation.

"We are seeing something of what we predicted," said Pavellas at a City Council study session. "We resigned because we could see a monumental excuse."

The council two weeks ago set the federally-funded program in motion, but Pavellas had urged that the city immediately begin to augment the $160,000 in HCDA funds with money from a state bonding program under the Marks-Foran Act.

"The city is going to renege on its agreement," Pavellas claimed. "The whole program is going to flop."

Rowe replied that the city has made a commitment so far only to "go to rehabilitation with HCDA, not Marks-Foran."

The city manager presented the council with a two-page explanation on why he believes a six-month wait on bonding studies is necessary.

Primarily, the report said city staff capability presently is strained, with five fulltime employees assigned to implement all HCDA programs on a special task force. Six other employees are working on the task force part-time.

Rowe said the city must hire a financial consultant to study the rehabilitation loan market demand and bond repayment capabilities, but city staff support will be needed.

The city manager also noted that the only public agency so far that has marketed Marks-Foran rehabilitation bonds is San Francisco, which has "more than 20 years experience, base data accumulation and information for use in developing marketability."

Rowe asked the council to defer studies for six months to monitor the experience of other cities, get the staffing underway for the HUD-funded project, complete the bonding capacity work for redevelopment and finish

Council Delays Grant Requests

A three-week delay in allocating $50,000 of federal revenue-sharing funds to health and social services-oriented community organizations has followed a complaint to Daly City's City Council by the Daly City Community for Children's Services.

The council decided to wait until Oct. 25 to grant money — scheduled to go only to Guadalupe Health Center, Food Advisory Services and Friends to Teen-age Parents.

City Manager David Rowe recommended that Guadalupe get $30,000 for health care services, Food Advisory Service $5,000 for its senior citizen mobile mini-market and Friends to Teen-age Parents $1,000 for crisis intervention, referrals and infant day care.

The remaining $14,000 was recommended to be unappropriated, for contingencies. Rowe said the Rev. Raymond Howard, president of the Board of Directors of the controversial DCCCS, had sent a mailgram stating that the day care organization was not notified of the availability of federal funds.

Both the city and the county have funded the DCCCS in the past, the city most recently with $5,000 to keep the organization on its feet until its funding status with the state is resolved.

Howard was not present at the revenue-sharing hearing, but center director Adrienne Shapiro said the DCCCS wants to apply for funds.

She said the state is funding the center at about $1,200-$1,300 a month in voucher payments for eligible parents who choose to send a child there.

But, she emphasized, the center still is operating at a "minimum level," with 11 children.

The county stopped funding of the day care organization. — See COUNCIL, Page 2

Daly City Fights Annexation Plan

The Daly City City Council will express formal opposition to the San Mateo County Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) the filing of a request by several unincorporated Colma property owners to annex to Colma.

City Manager David Rowe told the council Monday night that the application, spearheaded by El Camino Real motel operator Joseph Millett, is for annexation of a portion of the unincorporated area that includes only 400 persons.

He said the unincorporated Colma area, which extends from Junipero Serra Boulevard to Hillside Boulevard, has a population of about 1,400.

Rowe said the application, if successful, would leave unannexed the remaining 1,000 persons outside the 60-acre stretch of primarily commercial land, with little that's "fiscally attractive" to either Daly City or Colma.

The city manager, noting that a recent LAFCO decision stipulated that it would not act on further annexations until Dec. 1, said the hearing on the application could begin before then, with a decision later.

Councilman William Schumacher said he believes the council should oppose the application because Colma is self-sufficient, while Daly City needs more commercial property to support its services to a large minority population.

"Whoever takes the commercial property should also take the residential property," he added.

Council members noted that the entire unincorporated area lies within the Daly City sphere of influence, a LAFCO designation which specifies where annexation should occur.

The City Council is to pass a formal resolution of opposition next Tuesday.

In another matter, Rowe requested the city promote a street maintenance worker to the vacant street sweeper operator position cut during budget deliberations.

The city has only one sweeper employee, and several residents have complained about the cutback. The council asked for further study.

Six matters, ranging from the request by the San Mateo County Convention and Visitors Bureau for an increase in the tax support from the city to eminent domain proceedings in the city's multi-purpose center land acquisition project, were noted for public hearing by the council Oct. 11.

analysis of the consolidation of the city's community development and public works department.

The council's Rehabilitation Committee chairman, William Schumacher, suggested council meet with the financial consultant San Francisco used to get details of the project.

Mayor Albert Teglia requested that Schumacher and Councilman Victor Kyriakis, chairman of the advisory committee to the HCDA task force, meet with the consultant.

Rowe's recommendation was deferred until the two council members report back to council.

In other rehabilitation matters, the council approved a contract with Connerle and Associates to serve as project consultants to the federally-funded part of the project.

Polonsky said the contract, to extend through the end of the year, is not to exceed $15,000. The consultant is required to establish a Daly City office for the loan processing, and is looking in the Mission Street area, according to city officials.

In addition, the council appointed a three-person rehabilitation loan committee which will act on all loan applications from the old Daly City target area.

The council appointed the Rev. Hosey Spears as the representative of the Rehabilitation Advisory Committee, Daly City Community Development Director Don Fleming as the city staff representative and Frank Zanini as the banking representative.

Zanini, who resides on Garibaldi Street in Daly City, has been in the banking business 40 years, said Teglia, who nominated him for the seat.

zation after a city-county program review was sharply critical of its administrative methods and lack of parental involvement.

Ironically, a center director whose firing sparked the investigation of the DCCCS, spoke at the hearing on behalf of another day care operation.

Mrs. Anne Cooper, former DCCCS director, urged the council to fund the new day care operation at the Bayshore Baptist Church with $6,000.

She was joined in her pleas by Toni Lake, another former employee of the DCCCS. Both women said they were volunteering their time to the new day care effort.

The council promised to study both day care requests before the Oct. 25 hearing.

The council went ahead without comment and allocated $346,557 in revenue-sharing to general municipal operations support and $120,000 to city-operated health and social services.

while the state and local shares amount to $1,880,000 each.

He said the north county will be getting a valuable resource in the form of a reclaimed water facility.

The reclaimed water from the secondary treatment process will go to the Colma cemetery businesses, several golf and country clubs and other users like Caltrans who will irrigate large green belt areas with it.

SETTLING TANK WILL HOLD RECLAIMED WATER
Secondary treatment will save it for use on green areas.

CORRIDORS OF PIPING

The piping is accessible for quick repairs.

The green belt businesses have been pumping large amounts of water from the underground well table for years, a move that concerns users of the aquifer who depend on it for serving people's water needs.

Daly City, for instance, draws more than 50 per cent of its water from the aquifer.

"We will be recovering a resource, rather than wasting or dumping it," Gehre said.

The reclaimed water project is a two-stage operation that won't be completed until sometime next year, Gehre said. More funding for it is expected from the state.

The secondary plant, however, should be well into operation before the end of the year.

The secondary treatment will prevent any danger of contaminating the ocean by ensuring that the waste water not used by the reclaimed water green belt businesses is of good dumping quality.

You can see the difference easily, Gehre said. The primary treatment, which removes mostly solids, is a grayish color, while water receiving secondary treatment looks almost like drinking water.

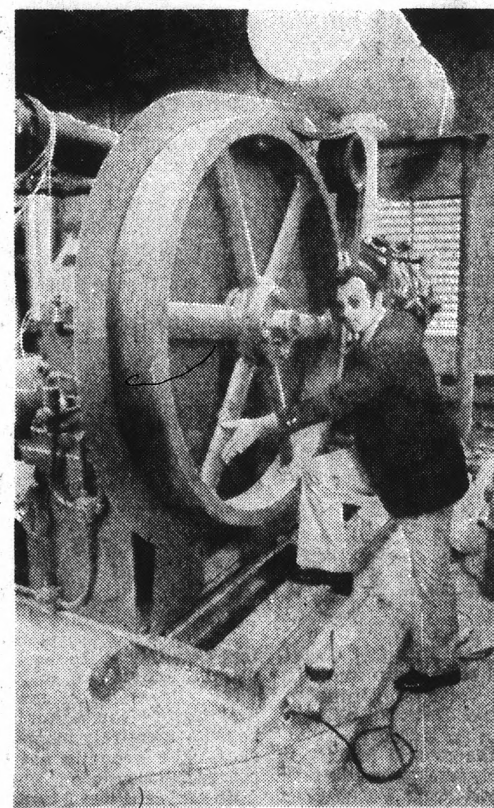

The transformation is made possible by a biological process, in which almost pure oxygen is pumped into the sludge matter for reaction with the different forms of bacteria. The water is made purer and the sludge solids are de-watered and hauled away from disposal.

It will be an operation that takes up almost every inch of the "postage stamp site" of the sanitation district location on Lake Merced Boulevard in the Westlake area of Daly City.

Gehre said it will take four to six weeks to "get all the bugs to come together harmoniously" in the bacteria-based system.

He said the contractor, Homer G. Olsen of Union City, has kept ahead of schedule since the construction of the new plant area began in November, 1975.

"We're 93 per cent complete now, with mostly the finishing touches remaining," Gehre said.

Library Relocation Creates Furor

The John Daly Library at the Top-of-the-Hill, Mission Street, may become the subject of much controversy between the redevelopment staff and interested citizens, said Don Ciucci, staff planner for redevelopment during a study session on the proposed new general plan last week.

Besides the building's historical significance as the city's first library, it also holds sentimental value for some of Daly City's long-time residents, according to Eve Aiello, a member of the Daly City General Plan Advisory Committee.

The redevelopment staff argues, however, that the library is no longer functional and would only serve to hamper the agency's efforts to redevelop prime land.

Ciucci suggested that, depending on feasibility, the agency could consider moving the building to another location out of the redevelopment area.

However, he said that such action would depend on a number of variables, including the cost and whether or not the building could sustain such a move.

E. Clay Dodge, president of the Hillside Homeowners Improvement Club, wrote a letter to the City Council Sept. 12, stating objections to "the sale or razing of the building."

"We feel that this library was a gift to the people of Daly City, for the use of the people of Daly City. We strongly urge your honorable body to declare this building an historical landmark," Dodge said.

Mrs. Aiello added that, "We see everything changing that we have grown up with. We would like to retain some of the things that we enjoyed as children and that we can still identify with."

She suggested that if the library were declared a historical landmark it could house historical material now tucked away in the bottom of the Serramonte Library.

Those who wish to preserve the library would even consider seeing it used as a foyer to another building behind or over it, but "only if it were preserved intact," Mrs. Aiello added.

Jane Powell, chairwoman for the study session, said a compromise will have to be settled on when the general plan comes before the City Council and City Planning Commission.

Another item of controversy between the City planning staff and the General Plan Advisory Committee (GPAC) is the subject of firehouse relocation.

The GPAC has agreed that, as a body, it does not object to the construction of new fire stations, but it does object to relocation of existing stations.

Joseph Keh, president of the Bayshore Residents' Association, explained that there are plans to move the present station on Geneva Avenue "up past Southern Hills."

"It would be very difficult for a fire truck to respond to a Bayshore resident's call if an event was being held at the Cow Palace," Keh said.

Again, Chairwoman Powell advised that the advisory committee has made its position known to the planning staff and council. She added that Keh's next step would be to go before both bodies when the general plan is studied and restate their concerns.

City Fire Chief, H. K. Schrock, responded in a memo to the advisory committee's recommendation that "no existing City fire station should be relocated" by contending that such a concept is completely "contrary to the concept of a General Plan or planning in general."

Western Days Off Into the Sunset?

By NANCY STANCILL

"It's like pricking a balloon. It really lets you down with a bang," Clara Witzemann said.

Mrs. Witzemann, executive director of the Brisbane Chamber of Commerce, was referring to her disappointment at the unexpected finale of the city's annual Western Days.

The four-day event ended abruptly Sept. 25 as almost 90 policemen broke up a rock and bottle-throwing crowd apparently angered by arrests for drunkenness.

As a result of the widely publicized fracas, Mrs. Witzemann and other city officials will spend the next few weeks trying to assess the future of the event.

City Manager Brad Kerwin is looking at the handling of the Sunday problems and plans to make a report to the City Council.

"There was a lot of booze flowing," he said. "There could have been a serious problem, but there was very little property damage."

Western Days is the biggest event of the year in the city at the base of San Bruno Mountain, drawing enough people during the four days of celebration to double the population of 3,000.

Although no one seems to know exactly why the "Western Days" theme was chosen, the festival featuring a parade, carnival, street booths, games and prizes and barbecue has been a tradition in the city since 1950.

During World War II there apparently was a similar event which was discontinued, then revived.

The event has been sponsored by the chamber in past years, but it got so big that this year Mrs. Witzemann asked six community organizations to donate time and money, while she coordinated the affair.

Mrs. Witzemann said she has not yet talked to those organizations about the unruly day.

She doesn't know whether they will volunteer if there is another.

The director said a decision on a 1978 festival will have to be made soon, since it takes almost a year to line up arrangements.

She said she believes that the disturbance was "blown entirely out of proportion. The Brisbane police called in other officers as a precautionary measure."

Brisbane Police Chief Bud Martini could not be reached for comment.

Mrs. Witzemann said the main value of the event is a promotion for Brisbane merchants, particularly the restaurant and tavern owners.

A number of the entrants in the parade come from as far away as Gilroy and Santa Rosa, giving the picturesque but not readily accessible city some public exposure.

Brisbane Mayor Paul Goercke said he is "really pleased with Western Days. The vibrations were mostly good this year."

"As with any celebration, it can become vociferous," he added. "It's a risk we have to take."

The mayor said the council will continue to weigh the "community feeling" concerning the celebration.

AIDING VETERANS

Rotary Helps Skyline Vets

Daly City's Rotary Club has given $1,000 to Skyline College for the establishment of a Skyline College Veterans Loan Fund.

This new loan program will permit eligible Skyline College veteran students to borrow as much as $100 and is designed to aid veterans who need extra money for the purchase of books or other school supplies. These no-interest loans must be repaid within 30 days.

Rotary Club President Aldo Simonetti presented the check to Skyline College President James C. Wyatt and Veterans Affairs Counselor Jack Fiedler at a meeting of the club recently.

Fiedler said, "If this loan proves successful, other Rotary Clubs may set up similar programs." It is estimated by Fiedler that approximately 30 veteran students could obtain loans each semester.

The college currently has approximately 700 veteran students enrolled in various programs. To qualify for the loan the veteran must demonstrate need for the funds and prove to have the ability to repay the loan. Once a veteran has qualified for the loan, he or she may receive the monies within 24 hours.

Requests for the loans originate with the college's Office of Veterans Affairs and will be administered through the college's Financial Aids Office.

Jeff Trustees Mull Proposals

Jefferson Union High School District's Board of Trustees held a three-hour closed session last week to discuss the contract proposals of two district unions, but took no action.

According to Dr. Robert Watt, an assistant district superintendent, the board probably will present its offers to the local chapters of the California School Employees Association and the American Federation of Teachers within the next two weeks.

The CSEA proposal deals both with salaries and benefits for the primarily clerical and secretarial employees it represents. The AFT is asking for salary improvements to the two-year contract signed this spring.

The board's counter-proposal may come up at its regular meeting Oct. 4.

In another union matter, Watt said a decision has been reached by an arbitrator involving a grievance filed by the AFT.

The grievance, which charged a contract violation when a Practical Adult and Career Education (PACE) class at Serramonte High was canceled by Principal Dion Dubois, was decided in favor of the district.

The union had claimed the class should not be canceled because it had a tentative enrollment of 32 students. The district pointed out that there were two other PACE classes offered.

Gregorio Bill OK'd

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has signed SB 90, authored by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo County, which will require the state to provide reimbursement to local governmental agencies to cover the costs of state-mandated programs.

Gregorio said the governor signed the bill Wednesday night.

The bill has two major features:

- It permits all local governmental agencies to file claims with the state Board of Control for reimbursement in state-mandated programs where the state does not provide costs.

- It gives school districts the power all other local governments now have to raise their maximum revenue limits to cover additional costs imposed by federal or state court decisions or by federal legislation and regulations.

WHITE CANE DAYS

Daly City Mayor Al Teglia is signing a proclamation naming Oct. 7-8 as White Cane Days in Daly City. Looking on is Don Bevilacqua, Lions Club chairman. Daly City Lions will collect money at key city locations to aid the blind.

League Takes Stand

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Delegates at the League of California Cities conference in San Francisco Wednesday voted on 64 resolutions that could change the course of California government.

It was a once-a-year chance for the 415 cities that belong to the League to shape policy for the organization on such controversial issues as public employee strikes, property tax reform, no-fault insurance and abortion funding.

At the state's most respected voice of local government, the League has considerable influence in Sacramento.

The most discussed issue during the three-day convention was a resolution introduced by San Diego Mayor and gubernatorial candidate Pete Wilson, endorsing a state constitutional amendment which would ban public employee strikes and binding arbitration.

The measure was approved by a vote of roughly 3 to 1.

Wilson's measure requested that public employees who strike be automatically fired and lose seniority benefits. It nullifies bargains made by negotiators to reinstate those benefits.

If enough signatures are gathered by mid-November, the initiative will be placed on a June 1978 state-wide ballot.

Among those opposing the measure were Mayors Janet Grey Hayes of San Jose, Lionel Wilson of Oakland and Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles. Mrs. Hayes said she believes the state constitution is not the place to make labor relations law.

Wilson noted that Californians paid for half a million days of service by public employees in 1976 that they didn't get.

Delegates overwhelmingly approved a measure which would enact state-wide no-fault vehicle liability insurance. By a vote of 105 to 65, they passed a resolution supporting the continuance of Medi-Cal funds for abortions.

Of particular interest to San Mateo County was a resolution supporting the annexation of unincorporated areas where services can be more effectively rendered if the areas are part of an incorporated city. Two such "islands" in the county are Broadmoor (surrounded by Daly City) and the Peninsula Golf and Country Club (surrounded by San Mateo). The resolution was approved.

Left to right, Paulette Young, Lt. Tom Culley, Nancy Tchakedjian — Two of the three winners of the 1977 scholarships awarded to local high school students by the Roland Petrocchi Memorial Trust Fund, are pictured with Daly City Police Lt. Tom Culley. This year's winners are Paulette Young, left, a 1977 graduate of Jefferson High School, Nancy Tchakedjian, right, and Lori Parise, not pictured, 1977 graduates of Westmoor High School.

Each of the winners received a check for $250 to use toward college expenses. Each applicant for the scholarship was required to compete in an oral presentation to representatives of the Petrocchi Trust Fund. The awards are made to students who indicate a desire to study law enforcement, with an eye toward a related career in the field of administration of justice.

SamTrans Commuter Plan

All systems are go now on two San Mateo County Transit District plans for getting more commuters to San Francisco quicker and cheaper.

The SamTrans board of directors last Wednesday approved a resolution implementing its Southern Pacific fare stabilization program as of Jan. 1 and approved a staff recommendation for increased bus service into San Francisco in about six weeks.

A registration form for the fare stabilization program, in effect a subsidy for commuters to encourage them to ride the trains, will be printed in local newspapers and distributed at the train stations around the county next week, General Manager John T. Mauro told the board.

Registration and issuance of "SamTrans" rider cards has been decided on as a way of telling who's who, because the SP commuters also will get free rides on local SamTrans buses to the train stations.

Mauro said he hoped to have registration completed by Nov. 15 so commuters can begin using the buses immediately, even though the SP ticket plan won't be along until Jan. 1.

Mauro said this date is set in Assembly Bill 1853, by Daly City Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, which allows SP to sell tickets to another transit agency and also mandates acquisition of the old SP San Bruno-Colma right-of-way and a purchase of train service plan to be drawn up by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

The proposed fare structure under SamTrans will be a money-saver for train riders, featuring a 30 per cent reduction on current SP fares. SP was allowed a 25 per cent regular fare increase in August, so the new SamTrans-subsidized fares, paid by federal and state transportation grants, actually are a 5 per cent discount from the old fares.

The savings on a 44-ride monthly commuter ticket to San Francisco, compared with current prices, would be $15.18 from the South County, $13.50 between Redwood City and Hillsdale (San Mateo), $11.81 between Hayward Park (San Mateo) and Burlingame, and $10.15 between Millbrae and South San Francisco.

Robert W. Naylor of Menlo Park, chairman of the SamTrans Citizens Advisory Committee, called the board action "perfect timing for this program." Passenger loads have been getting "a bit lighter in the last couple of months" on commuter trains and the cut rates may be just what's needed to spur them back up, he said.

Getting Commuters To San Francisco Faster for Less!

Asked from the audience at Millbrae City Hall why the district didn't save itself the work of registration and simply sell tickets directly at the train depots, Mauro replied that so far SP has refused to have anything to do with the SamTrans proposal and probably won't until required to by law.

SP has been making a determined effort to get Public Utilities Commission approval to drop commuter service on the Peninsula, a move which SamTrans opposes.

"It's a matter of compression. The trains come into San Francisco and unload 700 people at a time every three or four minutes during commute hours. We'd have to have a bus moving totally unimpeded (not in traffic) going down the freeway every 45 seconds to match that," Mauro explained.

The other proposal, for improved bus service into San Francisco, is the first major surgery on the district's Peninsula Mainline service, begun July 2 and replacing the Greyhound Lines service in this county.

In a tacit admission that Greyhound was right, or at least that old habits die hard, the plan by Mauro scraps the Route 7S run between Hillsdale Boulevard in San Mateo and downtown San Francisco, replacing it with a new Route 7B running from Redwood City to San Francisco via El Camino Real to San Mateo and then via San Mateo Avenue in San Mateo and California Drive in Burlingame. Many bus commuters had complained about the loss of the San Mateo-California link when the old Greyhound B line service was dropped July 2. The new Route 7B continues to San Francisco Intercity 7F, formerly a commute-hours run, which now will make 34 trips a day into San Francisco and not to BART in Daly City, as did 7A.

Route 5L, which formerly went south to Page Mill Road in Palo Alto, now will terminate in Menlo Park. These changes are based on 770 replies from a recent ridership poll done by SamTrans on what the riders want.

The result will be a 1,500 miles per day increase in driving, but the cost could be made up in two months with increased ridership, Mauro said.

All San Francisco runs now also will end at the Trans-Bay Terminal at First and Mission streets, avoiding San Francisco restrictions on the number of buses that can get into the Financial District daily.

There will be less service to the Daly City BART station, but bus riders didn't seem to want that much, despite the SamTrans efforts to steer them to it.

"We didn't want to compete with the railroad (the SP)," Mauro noted. "We went out of our way. Going to BART saves us going loaded into San Francisco and deadheading (running empty) coming back."

There now will be 111 trips a day to San Francisco, compared to 53 originally scheduled by SamTrans. Greyhound had run 144 a day on weekdays.

Transportation Planning Changes

A new law has changed the rules of California's multi-billion dollar freeway game.

The law was created last Tuesday when Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. signed AB402.

That bill abolishes four transportation planning bodies — the state Transportation Board, the state Aeronautics Board, the California Toll Bridge Authority and the state Highway Commission — and gives the state legislature new authority over the state highway budget.

The law mandates the formation of a new nine-member Transportation Commission. It will have the authority to plan highways. But the commission must submit its budgets to the legislature for ratification.

The law has been opposed by Brown's transportation director, Adrianna Gianturco, who has claimed that it will bring back pork barrel appropriations which the old Highway Commission was supposed to curb.

The law will almost certainly have a direct bearing on a project affecting San Mateo County. Completion of the Highway 92 interchange with the Bayshore Freeway has long been a desire of officials of San Mateo, Foster City and the county.

To that end, a delegation from those two cities and the county journeyed to San Jose this morning to lobby for funds to finish that interchange.

However, the local group was to address a lame duck body, the Highway Commission. According to spokesmen for the delegation, the purpose of the trip was to try to make an impression on the commissioners so that the Peninsula's intentions might carry over to the new Transportation Commission.

San Mateo Public Works Director Robert Bezzant said the new law is "a mixed bag" of provisions. He noted that "One advantage is that it appears to prune the wings of Adrianna Gianturco."

Critics of the transportation director have alleged that she has purposely withheld highway funds so that needed freeways could not be built.

She has denied that claim, however.

The governor's view of the law is not encouraging for local freeway backers.

Said he, "The planning process may grind even more slowly than the present. It could put up roadblocks that we haven't even conceived of yet. Roy Bell, state finance director, will become a player in the freeway game. There will be vetoes and blue pencils and paperwork that did not exist before. There will be lawsuits on regional plans. There will be regional meetings. There will be a new level of complexity to confront the freeway lobby."

San Mateo County has more than one freeway need at this time.

Besides the situation on Highway 92 in San Mateo, there are also construction possibilities at the Peninsula Avenue-Bayshore Freeway interchange in Burlingame-San Mateo, at the San Bruno Avenue-Bayshore Freeway interchange in San Bruno and along the Highway 380 right-of-way from San Bruno to Pacifica.

The law, the product of Assemblyman Walter Ingalls, D-Riverside, goes into effect Jan. 1, 1978. Full implementation is expected by August of 1979.

Crime Sex Education Week Meet To Help the Parents Topic

Crime prevention will be the featured topic at the Oct. 10 meeting of the Daly City Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons at the Westlake Clubhouse, starting at noon.

Featured speaker will be Ralph Damon who heads the Anti-Crime League for the Broadmoor division. He will be assisted by Conrad Pavellas and Ernest Pezola, directors of the League, who will act as resources persons.

Coming two weeks after the official opening of the Anti-Crime League's office at 101 Acton St., the talk will explain how residents of the area can use methods provided by the League to discourage burglary and promote neighborhood awareness.

Use of the compressed air whistle will be described, including its use as an emergency defense weapon. Other parts of the program include Operation I. D., and the offering of rewards, according to Conrad Pavellas, vice-president of the League.

League officials have compiled police reports which show a significant drop in crime in the areas where their program is in practice.

In 1976, 54 per cent of the 2,268 reported cases of gonorrhea in San Mateo County affected young people under age 24.

Forty-one per cent of the 602 babies born to San Mateo County teen-age mothers in 1975 were born out-of-wedlock.

Of the 2,222 reported abortions in San Mateo County in 1976, 43 per cent were performed on teen-age women age 19 or younger, and it is estimated that approximately one of every 30 teen-age women had a reported abortion that year.

Shocking as these statistics may be, they're not new. Problems related to teen-age sexuality have skyrocketed over the past five years.

According to a 1976 national survey conducted by the Alan Guttmacher Institute, more than one-half of our nation's teenagers have sexual intercourse before age 20, most without the benefit and protection of regular, effective birth control methods. This year, about one of every 10 American teen-age women between the ages of 15 and 19 will become pregnant. That's one million teen-age pregnancies.

Of those one million women, 600,000 will have babies; the remaining pregnancies will be resolved by abortion (over a quarter million) or miscarriage (about 150,000).

Nine out of every 10 teen-age women who bear children will keep their babies. The majority will be unable to finish high school because of the demands of raising a child. Those women will be, for the most part, unable to compete successfully with their peers in job-related areas because of lack of education and work experience.

Many experts believe that many of these problems could be avoided if teenagers had good information about sexuality, birth control, venereal disease, and parenting before they become sexually active. And, many of those experts believe that sex education should take place in the home with parents sharing information about sex with their children, as well as their values regarding sexual activity.

Firm Pursues Jobs

By JANET PARKER

U.S. Steel Corporation's hopes to secure a lucrative contract with three oil companies for construction of large off-shore oil drilling platforms got a boost from the South San Francisco Planning Commission last Tuesday night.

The commission voted 4-0 to approve a negative declaration for the proposed work, exempting the corporation from a full-blown and time-consuming environmental impact report.

The steel manufacturer must still obtain dredging permits from the Army Corps of Engineers and the Regional Water Quality Control Board, and a bay fill permit from the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Henry Morford, manager of the South San Francisco plant, listed the many steel plants in the Bay Area that have closed down in recent years and emphasized the importance of this particular project for his plant.

"We want this job," he said. "It's a lot of work. It's good for us and good for South San Francisco. But we're not going to quit if we don't get it."

He said the contract — if they get it — will add about $2 million a year to the steel plant's current $6 million payroll. It would allow U.S. Steel to employ from 100 to 175 more persons, bringing its current crew of about 125 workers up to full production, Morford said.

U.S. Steel is seeking the permits more specifically to dredge the Bay basin and construct barge docking facilities so that the platforms can be constructed.

The sprawling plant is located on Oyster Point Boulevard near Highway 101.

Three oil companies — Shell, Chevron, and Sun — are backing the project. Morford said four platforms will be built now and "numerous" others will be built later.

It is expected to be a 15-month project, commencing in December.

South San Francisco's planning staff conducted a detailed environmental analysis in determining that a negative declaration was appropriate.

City Planner William Costanzo said the steel company is willing to use reasonable precautions to counteract some of the possible effects of the proposed dredging project.

The only completely unmitigable impact in the area, Costanzo said, is the loss of a small man-made marsh which is of poor quality anyway due to neighboring industrial uses.

"After a careful review of the site and the data, it is the staff's opinion that given the current operating characteristics on the site and the extremely limited natural environment within the area, that no significant impact will be created by the proposed use," he said.

One area of concern, he pointed out, was possible visual impacts.

Commissioners were concerned about the appearance of crane booms and other structures up to 200 feet in height — about 20 stories tall.

Costanzo explained that little can be done to disguise that part of the project, although the planning staff is asking for landscaping and paint to blend with the skyline.

"We're talking about a tremendous structure," Costanzo said. "It certainly will have a visual effect. However, we're looking at it in the background of an industrial situation." Similar kinds of projects have been going on there since 1917, he added.

Costanzo pointed out that potential benefits of the proposed work include removal of old abandoned docks in the basin, elimination of a scrap steel storage yard and an increase in employment in an industry recently hit by lay-offs.

Burglaries Can Be Curbed

Cities can reduce burglaries and save money on police protection by paying closer attention to building blueprints, a police expert told delegates last week at the League of California Cities convention in San Francisco.

Ray Bray of the state Police Officers Standards and Training Office said he is amazed that the average California homeowner spends only $4.10 on a lock to protect his $45,000 home and valuables.

He urged city officials to follow the lead of 30 other cities which require builders to meet building security ordinances.

They have experienced a substantial reduction in burglaries, he said.

Bray said laws are necessary because houses are too easy to break into. Among their hazards, he said, are:

- Front doors made of thin veneer with cardboard insides

- Sliding doors that cannot be jammed shut from the inside because they slide on the outside.

- Outside doors with hinges on the outside, easily removed by burglars.

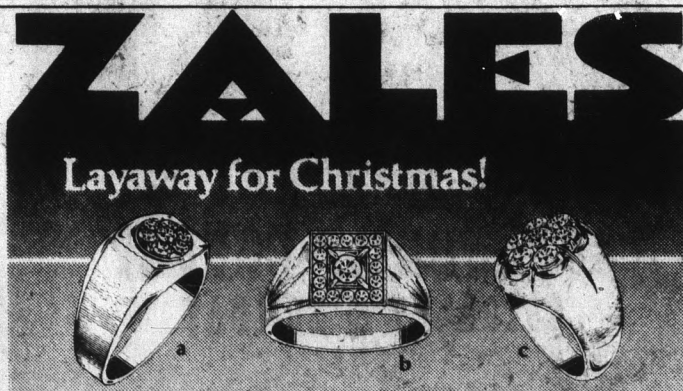

- Housing tracts that have only a few different kinds of keys, or master keys that are passed easily from electrician to carpet installer to sheetrock hanger.

Anything that can be done to discourage burglars will save cities an enormous amount of money, Bray remarked.

He said 58 per cent of all crimes today are burglaries. And each burglar caught costs about $7,000 to prosecute.

"And then it costs about $7,000 a year to incarcerate him," he added.

"In comparison, it costs about $60 to install adequate locking devices in a new home, and about $160 to bring an old home up to standards."

While the selection is greatest, choose a diamond ring that fits his lifestyle!

With Fall comes the bake sales — and one of the first organizations to sponsor a sale is the Balboa Boosters club.

Vickie Hackett, who is "chairing" the event, reports that a wide variety of baked breads, cup cakes, cookies and cakes will be sold in the Serramonte Shopping Center mall Saturday and Sunday. The booth will be open between 9:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. on Saturday and 12:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. on Sunday. Proceeds are earmarked for the high school's athletic program.

THE WESTLAKE Catholic Women and Our Lady of Mercy Men's Club will sponsor "Italian Night" Oct. 14 in the parish hall of the Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church.

The annual event will begin with dinner at 8:30 p.m. and dancing to the music of Al Borelli at 9:30 p.m.

Chuck Vanoncini and Mrs. Peter Balestrieri are in charge and Mrs. Sheldon Lendall is handling reservations. Tickets are $4.50 each.

THE SAN MATEO County Reading Association, (SMCRA), will hold its twelfth annual Conference, Oct. 15 at Hillsdale High School, San Mateo.

Dr. Margaret Lynch will be the keynote speaker.

Those leading section meetings will include Ton Collette, Cabrillo Unified district; Susanne Stevens, Skyline college; Dick Tingey, Menlo Atherton High School; Basil Willett, Jr. of San Mateo Elementary; Shirley Bockrath, Tom Thompson, Jo Hansen, John Hanson, Eva Dodd and Dale Fife. Also leading groups will be John Chaitin-McNichols, Stanford University; Helen Reidelberger, San Carlos High School; Jan Powell, University of California; Dick Tenney, Mrs. Lorraine Godfrey and Dr. Fannie Preston, Dr. Violet Robinson, Dr. DiAnn Ellis and Mary Grimm, San Francisco State University.

Contact Marie Lindsay, 333 Main St., Redwood City, for details.

Fees for the conference are $5 for SMCRA members; $10 for non-members; $3.50 for students and aides.

MEMBERS OF the Mary's Help Hospital Guild, fresh from a two day rest in Reno, are preparing for an Oct. 22 Luau.

Mrs. Virginia Stanghellini is searching for old costume jewelry to fill the "treasure chests" that will be used to decorate the tables at the luau. Unwanted jewels can be left in the gift shop at Mary's Help Hospital or at the Stanghellini home.

IT'S TIME to make reservations for the Fifty-Plus Club's junket to Lake Tahoe's South Shore.

Plans call for the club's tour bus to leave at 8 a.m. Oct. 26 for the Holiday Lodge and Harrah's club.

The big feature of this trip will be Frank Sinatra at Harrah's on the first night. Call Elizabeth Funderburg for reservations.

REGISTRATIONS are now being accepted for many early fall girl scout events, according to Association Chairman Mrs. Mary Ann Dale.

"Good Turn Day," previously an all-male event, invites girl scout troops, for the first time, to participate in the Salvation Army-Goodwill Industries service project. Leaders should send their response card in as directed by Oct. 7.

The "WORLDS TO EXPLORE ARENA" registrations for the girls and adults of the area is open for the event scheduled for Oct. 15 at Pine Lake in Stern Grove in San Francisco.

Girls will explore the fields of people, art, well-being, out-of-doors and today and tomorrow. The new "Worlds To Explore" girl scout handbook will be the reference.

Girl scout's first minicamp of the 1977-78 year will deal with "Media" and is set for Nov. 4-6 at Bothin in Marin County with registration for Cadettes and Juniors on a first come-first serve basis.

Registration is through the San Leandro office with workshops scheduled on videotaping, newswriting, graphics and postermaking, music and slide shows, poetry, disk jockeying, commercials, photography, graffiti and street art, etc.

Scouts Seeking Members

Broadmoor Presbyterian Church is the place to be at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays for persons interested in joining an active scout troop.

Troop 84 boasts of many past achievements and looks forward to earning many more in the future, says Al Schneider, scoutmaster. He plans a program of exciting activities for his group.

"Some of the forth-coming activities will include swim nights, campouts, snow trip, special guest speaker at the weekly meetings plus a few unannounced surprises," he said.

"If you are between the ages of 11 to 17 years old, we invite you to join us at the lighted doorway of the Presbyterian Church on 87th Street," the scoutmaster added.

Methodist Services

"Being True To One's Self" is the theme of the Sunday sermon at the Daly City United Methodist Church, 1474 Southgate Ave., according to Rev. David R. Swope.

Scripture lesson is based on Luke 7:31-34.

Worship service and church school are at 10 a.m.

Administrative Board, with Janet Thompson as chairperson, will meet Oct. 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Plans for the all day rummage sale to be held Oct. 29, 10 to 4 p.m., are progressing, announces Eleanor Giusti, chairperson.

B'nai Israel Services

Sabbath Services will be observed in the Sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Oct. 7 at 8:30 p.m.

The services will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book, assisted by Cantor Salo Blumenthal, who will chant the liturgy.

At the conclusion of services will be an Oneg Shabbat (social hour), hosted by two members of the Temple Sisterhood.

Saturday Morning Services

Rabbi Ira Book of Congregation B'nai Israel has announced that Saturday (Shabbat) morning Services commence at 10:30 a.m. in the Temple Sanctuary, 1575 Annie St., Daly City.

On Shabbat morning, Oct. 8, Rabbi Book will conduct services and a Torah study and discussion session.

DC Man To Star In Play

The San Francisco Bay Area Management Club of United Airlines opens a three-weekend run of Dale Wasserman's "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" Oct. 7 at 8:30 p.m.

The production will be staged in the Main Theatre at Skyline College, 3300 College Drive, San Bruno.

The play, based on a novel by Ken Kesey, is listed by Samuel French, Inc. as a farce, but Director Derek Charnley disagrees.

Charnley, who has worked with numerous Peninsula groups and extensively with Hillbarn, feels that to call the play a farce is an extreme.

"There is nothing farcical about mental illness. I would categorize the play as a gentle blend of comedy, tempered with poignancy and drama to highlight the fears and concerns of the mentally ill," he said.

The play evolves around the situations of life on a ward, primarily the Day Room, in an institution somewhere in the Pacific Northwest.

Life on the ward is incredibly dull and routine until the arrival of R. P. McMurphy, an extroverted con man who has had numerous brushes with the law.

McMurphy has succeeded in getting himself assigned to the institution, waging again, as is his nature, that serving out his sentence in the institution would certainly be easier than the hard work in the

Pacifica Reinstates Volunteer

After much controversy, Bob Plaskon of Pacifica officially has been reinstated as an emergency Services volunteer in the city's Band unit.

Members of the CB unit voted last Wednesday night to allow Plaskon in. The 28-year-old handicapped man has been trying to be reinstated since May. At one time, he threatened to sue the city when the Emergency Services Department rejected him on the basis of his infirmities.

Plaskon previously had served in the CB unit for 3½ years before he resigned in April in a dispute over internal policies. He reapplied three weeks later after he believed conditions had improved.

Bedridden since an Army accident in 1960, Plaskon communicates with the world by telephone, CB radio and typewriter.

On June 28, the City Council voted to reword the volunteer guidelines for Emergency Services volunteers so as not to discriminate against the handicapped. But when Plaskon resubmitted his application in August, he was told that the city had decided to leave the selection of volunteers to the members in each volunteer group.

PLANNING ITALIAN NIGHT

president, W.C.M.; standing, left to right, Mmes. Sheldon Lendall, reservations chairwoman, and Robert Brizuela, vice president W.C.W. For details call Mrs. Sheldon Lendall at 992-6327.

Donald Weidner for pain they suffered over the months. Weidner said he had no comment on the matter.

Jim Brush, who heads the CB unit, said three other applicants were accepted by members at the Wednesday meeting. They are Harley Morath, Donna Starr and Charlene Polianos.

Brush said the group has drills planned for the next 14 months. The next one will be on Halloween night.

At first Plaskon was angered by the sudden shift in policy, but he later decided that autonomy was a bonus for the CB group.

"After all these years, control has been put into the hands of the right people. They don't have to fear anyone because they are a self-governing body," he said.

While awaiting the decision by the CB unit on his application, Plaskon demanded an apology to his parents from City Manager

Sizzler's Complete Noontime Lunches

Most of the luncheon specials now being featured at the SEZZLER FAMILY STEAK HOUSES (San Bruno and Daly City) include a salad (your choice of dressing, including Sizzler's famous bleu cheese) and a beverage (coffee, tea or a regular size soft drink). A lot of lunch at a little price. Served till 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Other lunches are also available. . . . The TRI SOUNDS, Tom Lucia on base guitar, John Gentile on drums, and Jack Bailey on lead guitar, play danceable music nightly, Tuesdays through Saturdays, at the BAYHILL LOUNGE, San Bruno. Their wide-ranging repertoire enables the group to "play to the crowds." Even dieters can't resist the extraordinary desserts at PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, Taylor Street entrance. Phil's flaming Peach Pernod, prepared at table-side, is a spectacular finale to a superb dinner. . . . Roast Chicken and Polenta is a Sunday special at VINCE'S SEAFOOD AND ITALIAN restaurant, San Mateo. "We put up orders to go," reminds TONY LICATA. . . . The 50 cents discount coupons, valid on any food purchase over one dollar, are once again in effect at any of TANFORAN PARK'S Nine Garden Restaurants. The coupon (see today's Bright Lights) can be redeemed only after 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. . . . Marc Hill, famed catcher for the San Francisco Giants, was seen feasting at NICK'S restaurant and lounge in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. His meal was a "home run" with "no outs." . . . From fashion shows to live entertainment to Monday night football promotions, JOE LOHMAN, general manager of THE CASTAWAY at Coyote Point, is giving his patrons what they want. Although new luncheon and dinner menus were recently introduced, Lohman is still experimenting with various daily specials. . . . YOLANDA'S, located in the San Francisco Produce Market, is featuring another dinner special from 5 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday. This time the special is Short Ribs of Beef. Soup, salad or pasta, two vegetables, plus French bread and a glass of complimentary wine are included in the special through the month of October. . . . Monday through Friday from 5 to 7 p.m., CHARLEY BROWN'S in Redwood City will serve you a marvelous "Twilight" Prime Rib Dinner at an eye-opening price of $5.95. The "king of beef" is served with soup or salad, baked potato, sourdough bread, beverage and dessert. Located at Municipal Marina, Harbor Blvd. . . . Those new $3.95 luncheon specials at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB in San Francisco are a bargain in gourmet dining. The entree is different daily, delicious always. Mondays, it's Braised Pot Roast of Beef; Tuesdays, Roasted Pork Loin with Champagne Sauce; Wednesdays, Barbecued Prime Rib Bones; Thursdays, Corned Beef and Cabbage; Fridays, Petrale Sole Normandy; and Saturdays, Breast of Chicken Marco Polo. . . . That $3 admission charge to see "Get Happy," the hit musical comedy show at LEHR'S CABARET THEATER in San Francisco, is a bargain in great entertainment. An even bigger bargain: dinner patrons in the adjoining LEHR'S GREENHOUSE Garden Restaurant receive free tickets to the show. . . . Celebrities continue to flock to SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S for cocktails and dinner. George Benson and two of his super musicians were dinner guests at this superb Redwood City dinner house during their recent appearance at nearby Circle Star Theater. . . . If ROMANO'S Italian and Seafood restaurant in Rockaway Beach hasn't run out of the Chef's Specialty, namely Steamed Clams Bordelaise ($4.85), then you're really in luck. Owner ENRICO ROMANO says it is the fastest-moving menu item on any given night. . . . Beginning Oct. 7, humorist BILL COSBY and singer FLORENCE HENDERSON will pair for a crowd-pleasing show in the South Shore Room at HARRAH'S TAHOE, through Oct. 20. Musical backing by the BRIAN FARNON ORCHESTRA. JOHN DAVIDSON and KELLY MONTEITH continue through Oct. 6.

Turner heads CAPTURE

Charles K. Turner, president of the First National Bank of Daly City, has been selected as chairman of the Board of Directors of CAPTURE, Citizens' Crime Prevention, Inc.

Also selected as vice chairman is San Mateo City Police Chief J. L. Coppock and as secretary-treasurer, Barbara Carr, of Carr Realty, Pacifica.

CAPTURE, Inc. is a newly formed non-profit organization dedicated to increasing citizen awareness of current crime problems and educating them on crime prevention techniques.

This cooperative effort, involving law enforcement and concerned citizens, is the direct product of the federal grant, C.A.P.T.U.R.E. (Citizens' Active Participation Through Utilization of Relevant Education), which has operated in San Mateo County for the past three years.

The progress of CAPTURE, Inc. is being watched closely by law enforcement and citizen groups across the country as this is the first time that a federal grant of this type has evolved into a non-profit corporation, independent of federal assistance, Turner said.

Pets Manufacture Illnesses

Pets deliberately get sick to get your attention. They learn to manufacture illnesses such as coughs, rashes, limps and even fatal diseases — or indulge in "sick" behavior such as carpet wetting — just so their owners will respond with concern. Indeed, when a pet finds an illness that really worries his master, he goes all out, and things get worse.

This revelation comes from Dr. Herbert Tanzer, who has practiced veterinary science for 20 years. In his book "Your Pet Isn't Sick, He Just Wants You To Think So," (Dutton $6.95), Dr. Tanzer and his co-author, Nick Lyons, maintain that people create their pets; or, in other words, they lead their pets to reflect the personalities and life styles of their owners.

GRUMPY, GROUCHY dogs have grumpy owners. Lazy, sleepy pets reflect lazy, sleepy owners. A cat that could barely limp up the stairs belonged to an aged man with arthritis in his legs. A collie that was a chronic hair shedder was found to belong to a balding man.

Indeed, a dog that belonged to a weak-souled man was brought to Dr. Tanzer for anti-social behavior. Examination proved that the dog was reflecting his master's secret desire and acting where the owner would not; so in the man's words, "He knocked my mother-in-law on her ass."

Samuel Chandler

Pets, says Dr. Tanzer, live in a sphere completely dominated by their masters. "Why," he asks, "do people create their pets? Clearly, it is to play out a drama in their lives that is not yet completed. Often the master does not understand that the pet's erratic behavior is actually a mirror of his own. As a result the pet reaps punishment and pain that he doesn't deserve."

Judo Program in D.C.

A Judo program now is available to the public at Westlake Lutheran Church, 222 Avalon Drive, Daly City on Saturday mornings starting at 10 a.m.

Boys and girls, men and women can register for the program any Saturday morning. Visitors can attend each class session.

Basic Kodokan Judo techniques are taught and students will have the opportunity to compete for promotion to higher Judo rank. Special attention is given to beginners. Instructors include qualified Black and Brown belt holders.

For details, call 993-5764 or 755-5598.

THUS, THE games the pets play reflect the personalities of their masters. They feign sickness to get attention. They play what Dr. Tanzer calls the acknowledgement game, simply seeking approval.

Often pets are victims of the acknowledgement games that their humans play. Some must be sold or slain because they do not belong to the "in" breed of the season or because they do not possess an impressive pedigree or the qualities that win championships.

Other games are the sex game, wherein humans do not understand the rules, and the violent pet game and the sick game. Each seems to lead to the principle that both pets and masters need to train each other. They need to understand each other and work together.

"YOUR PETS can — and should — enrich your life," Dr. Tanzer writes. "You should enrich theirs. Ultimately, what we want is unity. If we see ourselves in our pets, we can see ourselves better. If we are genuinely one with our pets, we are no longer master over here and pet over there; we learn the pleasures of participating in the life of another creature."

Dr. Tanzer's book has been widely reviewed and should be widely read. Like the man said, "A remarkable number of pet owners are dead ringers for their pets."

THE POST

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

I have a delightful cake recipe to share with you. It's so tasty and unusual, using grated sweet potato as a main ingredient. It was created as a treat for Rosh Hashanah which was celebrated Sept. 13. I realize this is a wee bit late, but give yourself a treat and bake one for your family. Everyone who shared my test cake declared it delicious.

SWEET POTATO CAKE

2 cups unsifted flour
2 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
4 eggs, separated
2 cups sugar
1 cup peanut oil
1 1/2 cups shredded raw sweet potato
1 cup chopped pecans
1/3 cup hot water
Confectioners' sugar

Combine the two cups flour, two and one-fourth teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon each baking soda and salt, one teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg and one-half teaspoon cloves. Stir to blend well; set aside.

Beat the four egg whites in small mixer bowl until soft peaks form; set aside.

In large mixer bowl combine the two cups sugar and one cup peanut oil. Beat until well blended. Add the four egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each addition. Mix in the one and one-half cups shredded raw sweet potato and one cup chopped nuts. Alternately blend in dry ingredients and the third cup hot water. Fold in the beaten egg whites. Turn batter into a greased and floured 12-cup bundt pan.

Bake at 350 degrees about 55 minutes, or until done. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes. Turn out onto rack to finish cooling. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Makes one Bundt cake.

Note: Pecans are rather expensive, so I substituted one cup chopped walnuts.

Motorcycle, Car Collide

Pacifica's twisty Sharp Park Road was the scene of an accident Monday at 12:20 p.m. when a motorcycle and a car collided.

The motorcyclist, Michael Facchiano, 30, of 731 Bradford Way, Pacifica, was taken to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, where he was listed in "satisfactory" condition this morning.

Police said the driver of the car, Josephine McGowan of Pacifica, was not injured.

MELLOW MORNING

The arrival of October Saturday was a boon for fishermen and other boaters on San Francisco Bay. With autumn's windy weather not far away, Peninsula residents took full advantage of flat seas and sunny air to get in a last bit of houseboating and fishing. The few sailboats to be seen off the shore this morning were drifting lazily, awaiting the afternoon breezes.

SSF to Regulate Bingo, Detectors

South San Francisco is considering two new ordinances, one to regulate bingo and the other to require installation of smoke detectors in certain situations.

Police Chief James Datzman and Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner outlined the proposed ordinances at a City Council study session last week.

Both ordinances are in the working stages and final drafts are not expected for at least a month.

Datzman explained that changes in state law require cities to develop local ordinances to permit the playing of bingo within city limits.

Technically, organizations violate the law if bingo games are conducted in cities without the proper ordinances.

The proposed smoke detector ordinance requires that the devices be installed in every new single-and two-family residence and in every hotel and motel room.

It also would require the installation of detectors in single- and two-family homes that are sold, or when $1,000 or more is spent on home remodeling or restructuring.

Chief Toellner said the proposed ordinance, which still must be studied by the city attorney, is similar to ordinances in neighboring cities.

"The absence of formal ordinances still is not unique," Datzman said of the bingo proposal. Many cities still are developing their local laws.

The proposed ordinance, Datzman said, primarily will affect bingo games played for profit.

All organizations that provide bingo games would be required to file an application with the police department. There presently are about eight organizations that play bingo in the city.

In the proposed ordinance, the application fee would be $50. However, occasions when bingo is played for fun — such as Boy Scout troops and senior citizen club meetings — probably will not be charged the fee.

Datzman said the city is most interested in bingo played for fund-raising purposes.

Other provisions of the proposed ordinance include:

- No person under the age of 18 could participate.
- All bingo games shall be open to the public, not just to members of the organization.
- All profits from bingo games will be kept in a special account of the organization.
- An annual report of bingo profits will be submitted to the police chief.
- Under the penal code, violators could be fined as much as $10,000. Datzman said he is working with the city attorney to include a provision for revoking the license of an offender, rather than turning to stiff fines.
